Our experience can add value to your study by providing access to key investigators, experienced study centers, networks of specialized labs (CTC/DTC/PBMC), insightful study design and much more.

Assign has designed and conducted several clinical immunotherapy trials in oncologic indications such as prostate cancer, ovarian cancer and colorectal carcinoma, to name a few.

Our track record spans both preventive and therapeutic vaccines, subunit and conjugates across all phases IV in more than 15 countries, 190 study centers and 2500 patients.

Assign has been at the forefront of the advance into personalized medicine, supporting several highly personalized dendritic cell studies, as well as protein fragment-based therapeutic cancer vaccine projects. Through this, we have gained tremendous insight and knowledge into the conduct, therapeutic necessities, recruitment issues and logistics of personalized medicine studies.
ASSIGN’s people have earned a reputation for integrity across all service lines. Our unique structure affords you the flexibility to choose the expertise and services you need, specifically tailored to your individual study requirements.
